Bids Will be Let This Month For Academic Building

Bids on the new academic instructional building to be erected in the area now used for parking behind the Administration Building are due to be let this month and it is hoped that construction will begin in early spring pending a final review of plans.

The Board of Governors of West Virginia University, which serves as a governing body for Potomac State College, gave approval to final plans for the building at a meeting last December.

Allowing approximately 15

New Arts Center Named In Honor Of Church, McKee

Potomac State's new $1.4 million multi-purpose building, the Church-McKee Arts Center, was dedicated in special ceremonies last November 2.

Honored in the naming of the building were two former administrators, Dr. Ernest E. Church, president of the college from 1936 to 1964 and the late Kirkland S. McKee, dean, 1936-63.

Their terms of office, which together total 55 years of service to the college, were almost identical.

Dean McKee died in office May 20, 1963. Dr. Church resigned in July, 1964, to become executive

New Officers View Gift From Alumnus

The Potomac State College Alumni Association recently received an unexpected gift when a gavel set was presented to the officers by John H. Aylor '40, who is now an instructor in manual arts at Wardensville High School.

Aylor, who perennially attends Homecoming festivities, noticed at the last luncheon that there was no gavel in use so he asked one of his students to design and make a set. The finished product, the work of Sherwin Tharpe, of Rio, is shown on the desk used by the new officers at a recent meeting. Standing are Kenneth F. Haines, president, and Junior Haines, vice-president. Seated is Mrs. Joseph Stanislawczyk, the former Miss Margaret Dorsey, who is secretary-treasurer of the Association.

About 100 Are Expected To Graduate May 10

An estimated 100 students are expected to be graduated this spring from Potomac State College pending successful completion of requirements for this semester.

Commencement has been scheduled for Friday, May 10, with the annual sermon to the graduates being given the preceding night, May 9. Speakers for the two events have not yet been chosen.

President Hopeful Structure Includes Full Dining Area

Preliminary work has begun to consider the feasibility of a new or additional men's residence hall on the campus, according to President Todd H. Bullard, who said a special committee is currently studying the proposal.

The President has indicated that the college does not have sufficient housing on the campus now and that some 125 students are living in private homes in the community. Projected plans indicate that the demand for housing will be growing appreciably in the years ahead and the committee is trying to determine what the best manner would be to finance a residence hall which would also provide adequate space for a new dining room and kitchen facilities for the entire campus.

President Bullard said the administration hopes that the new structure would be more flexible in use and more adaptable than the residence halls now in use. He said it would be the desire

Counseling Center Gets Federal Aid; Several Staff Appointments Made

Potomac State College students now have access to a Counseling Center which is being funded completely this year through a grant of $32,000 from the Federal Government.

The center has a range of purposes, foremost among which are development of a testing service permitting students to more nearly match their ability and aptitude with a program of study and, as it evolves, will permit the faculty to better understand the high school programs from which the students are coming.

The center offers the student a place where he can go for conversation, advice, and a sympathetic ear. It is expected the center will permit a larger number of students to complete their college program by a more precise placement of students in programs of study. The Administration also expects to see it used as a means of effectively communicating with four-year institutions to which the students will transfer. In other words it is a data-gathering source.

Serving as counselor is Billy Ray Dunn '53, who returned to the campus after seven years as a teacher at Petersburg (W. Va.) High School where he also served two years as assistant principal. Last year he was guidance director for Grant County schools. He holds an M.S. in agriculture from WVU and has an additional year's graduate work in guidance.

Miss Michele Peterson of

Mr. and Mrs. John Nassif (DOLORES WILLHIDE, '53), Hamden, Conn., a daughter, Feb. 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Muto (ANNE DRANE, '60), Fairmont, a son, Jan. 18.

Pittsburg joined the staff early in December as assistant counselor. A 1966 graduate of WVU, with an AB in music, she has done graduate work in guidance counseling and music. As a graduate assistant at the University, Miss Peterson was part-time instructor in piano and also gave private lessons. The center's secretary is Miss Lora Lewis, of Keyser, an alumna of Potomac State College.

Two other persons have been added to the staff since the last edition of the Newsletter. E. Dane Harvey succeeds the late Prof. A. K. VanScoy as instructor in physics. He served as a staff physicist with Hercules - ABL at nearby Rocket Center from 1948 until his present appointment. A native of Frostburg, Md., he received his AB degree from Oberlin College and has taught extension courses for WVU and also at Frostburg State College.

Another new staff member, in the Military Science Department, is Capt. Brian J. Carroll. A graduate of the University of Rhode Island he recently returned from Vietnam. Capt. Carroll received his commission through the ROTC program.

months for construction, the new facility should be ready for occupancy by the fall of 1969.

The vacant lot near the present Music Building will be converted to a parking area to take care of those vehicles now being parked behind the Administration Building.

The Appalachian Regional Commission last summer approved a $330,000 grant for construction of the building. These funds will be matched by $330,000 from the Higher Education Facilities Act of 1963 and $165,000 from the Capital Improvements Fund, for a total of $825,000.

Architect is Robert J. Bennett, Morgantown, who also designed the Church-McKee Arts Center, Friend Hall, and the Library.

Geraldine (Ravenscraft) Taylor '39 and Conlon who was also appointed by the board to continue as editor of the Alumni Newsletter. Gary L. Keedy is a hold-over member of the board. Prof. Jack M. Hartman '55, psychology, was chosen faculty representative to the board, in place of Prof. Jasper T. Morris, who is on leave of absence.

Adhering to tradition the weather was cloudy and damp and the Catamounts lost the football game but hundreds of former students returned to their Alma Mater for the weekend events and nearly a hundred persons attended the noon luncheon. Thirty-six classes were represented.

Registration and coffee hour took place in the new Church-McKee Arts Center where former students had an opportunity to view the new building during the morning hours as well as during the reception following the game.

Other activities during the day included the Circle K sponsored parade, the homecoming ball, and several group reunions foremost of which was the gathering of the championship football team of 1946-47 which honored Coach Dana G. (Horse) Lough. (See separate story in this issue.)

Carl W. Gustkey '26 Dies In Wheeling Hospital After Lengthy Illness

Carl W. Gustkey, '26, of Wheeling, former chairman of the Alumni Association Scholarship Fund ('57-'58), died in a Wheeling hospital last October 26 after a lengthy illness. He was 60 years old.

He joined Imperial Glass Corp., Bellaire, Ohio, in 1938 and became its president in 1940, continuing in this capacity until his death. During this time he donated to Potomac State College a complete set of dinnerware in glass which has been used by the home economics department since completion of the Science Hall in 1951.

Survivors include his widow and four children. A son, Carl Edward, attended Potomac State in 1956-58.

Turn Back The Hands of Time

Smiles and handshakes for old times sake seemed to be the order of the day on Homecoming last fall when some of the players who helped Potomac State College win the West Virginia College Conference championship 20 years ago honored their old coach, "Horse" Lough. The happy reunion was held at the home of Joe Stanislawczyk, fullback on the title team and until recently a member of the coaching staff at Keyser High School.

White House Aide Featured In Recent Magazine Article

Matthew B. Coffey, '60, is one of several federal workers featured in an article entitled "Young Men Who Make the White House Tick" carried in the February 5 issue of "U. S. News and World Report."

Coffey, a former resident of Cumberland, Md., is currently serving as a "talent scout" for President Lyndon B. Johnson, compiling lists of names of possible appointees for executive and judicial posts and also helps to handle presidential mail on appointments.

Following his graduation here he received both B.S. and M.S. degrees at West Virginia University after which he served as an investigator for the Civil Service Commission.

Former Grid Champs Pay Tribute To the Loughs During Reunion

By DR. E. A. ATWATER

A football coach whose team has gone down to a stinging defeat before a Homecoming crowd in the afternoon has little to be happy about that evening but Potomac State's football coach Dana G. (Horse) Lough was one of the happiest men in the world that Saturday evening last fall.

Members of his WVIAC championship football teams of 1946 and 1947 decided weeks prior to Homecoming that the 20th anniversary of their winning the W. Va. Intercollegiate Athletic Conference crown deserved a celebration with their coach.

All the plans were "hush-hush," but letters went out across the nation in an effort to gather members of the teams in Keyser, with Joe Stanislawczyk "elected" to "captain" the efforts.

Thirteen men from four states and the District of Columbia made it, several accompanied by their wives. One of them, Bill Campbell, who came to Potomac State from Clarksburg to play center, was right under the coach's nose as umpire during the afternoon game. The rest huddled together in the stands. Campbell, now research assistant for curriculum studies in Fairfax County Schools, lives at Falls Church, Va.

When the game was over, the boys had to do some of their best "tackling," to keep the coach from slipping off to see some other football game, as he often does. But they finally corraled him toward the Stanislawczyk residence for the reunion.

Just seeing the boys was pleasure enough, but they had more in store for him.

First came a plaque of wood, with an inscription in bronze: "To Horse, for 33 years of unselfish and untiring work with boys, from the boys of 1946-47." Then followed the presentation of an Italian sculpture, a horse, with a bronze plate inscribed to the coach. And there were other personal gifts.

Mrs. Lough, invited to be a witness to all this, was honored also. The boys presented her a trophy of a queen with a crown inscribed facetiously, yet affectionately, "To Vi, for putting up with Coach Lough for 42 years." Along with the presentation, they thanked her for all the good meals she had provided. (Mrs. Lough is dietitian at the college.) They also gave her flowers and gifts of jewelry and cosmetics.

The evening was spent in happy reminiscing and viewing of movies of many of the football games of 1946-47.

In 1947, the year the Loughmen took the WVIAC crown, they defeated Concord, Morris Harvey, Shepherd, D & E, Salem, Glenville, and Tech. They tied West

Foundation Launches 1968 Appeal to Boost Scholarship Funds

Included with this issue of the ALUMNI NEWSLETTER is a letter announcing the 1968 fund drive for the Potomac State College Alumni Foundation, Inc.

Foundation president, Joseph W. Kessel '48, notes in his message to all former students the excellent growth of this scholarship fund since its inception in 1962. Contributions totalling more than $7,000 have been placed in a trust fund and income from the trust currently permits awarding of two scholarships in the name of all alumni annually. This year's holders are sophomores Mikal McCartney of Petersburg, W. Va., and freshman John P. Stephen, Jr., Keyser.

All alumni are urged to participate in this worthwhile project to educate the nation's youth. Each contributor will be an active supporter of higher education and the gifts are tax deductible.

Dr. and Mrs. Church Give Wall Hanging To New Arts Center

A wall-hanging which was once on display at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City is now a permanent part of the Church-McKee Arts Center as a gift from Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Church.

Approximately six by nine feet, the hanging depicts in design the creation, mythological characters, drama, dance, and music in a hand woven, hand screened block print done on heavy linen. The figures, in black and white, stand out on a deep blue background.

The hanging, which is the original work of an outstanding Swedish artist, was a gift to Dr. and Mrs. Church in 1949 from the Rev. and Mrs. Knute Ericson of Valdemarsvik, Sweden, whose daughter, Miss Marianne Lundberg came to Keyser to spend a year studying at Potomac State College and made her home with the Churches.

FORMER GRID

Liberty 7-7 and lost to California 26-6.

Stanislawczyk and George Walley made the first team All Conference, and Bill Stultz the second team. Stanislawczyk was the only man east of the Mississippi to be named to the National Junior College All American team.

Letters and telegrams were read from many of the boys unable to return.

The following men were present: Bill Ballard, a halfback from Jane Lew, who went on to W. Va. Wesleyan. Bill is now coaching at Jane Lew High School. Jack Dorsey, a halfback from Keyser now living at Wheeling where he is area resident on construction of Interstate 70. Brooks Harris, a halfback from Weston, now coaching and teaching at West Holmes High, Millersburg, Ohio. Harris finished at Glenville.

Homer Henderson, a halfback from Moundsville, a Shepherd graduate now teaching and coaching freshman football at Moundsville High. John Peters, quarterback from Bethlehem, Pa., who graduated from Lehigh University and is now a tool engineer for Bethlehem Steel.

Ken Sims, a back from Jane Lew, who went on to W. Va. Tech and after 16 years of coaching is now an instructor with the Job Corps at Charles Town. Bill Stultz, a tackle from Westernport who graduated later at VPI. He is now head of the Engineering Section, Headquarters Marine Corps, Virginia.

Charles Ruyak, halfback from Bethlehem, Pa., graduated at Muhlenberg College and now resides at Allentown where he is an accountant with United Gas Improvement Co. Bill Telek, a back from Conemaugh, Pa., returned from Johnstown where he is Director for Region H (Bedford, Blair, Cambria, and Somerset Counties) under ARIMC and ESEA, Title III. Telek completed undergraduate work at the University of Miami and has post graduate work near the doctoral level from Pennsylvania State University.

George Walley, a guard from Benwood, went on to George Washington University and is now athletic director and assistant football coach at Moundsville High. Mike Yewcic, halfback from Conemaugh, Pa., has been head football coach at Conemaugh High for 18 years. He is a West Virginia University graduate. Stanislawczyk, fullback from Conemaugh, is another George Washington U. grad. He now teaches at Keyser High, where he is also assistant football coach and head wrestling coach.

Also present was former assistant football coach Jud Hodges, himself one of the Catamounts of 1937-38 teams, who is now with the FBI in Washington, D. C.

Several of the boys found their wives among Potomac State coeds: Stanislawczyk married the former Margaret Dorsey of Keyser; Ballard married Rosemary Kady of Keyser; Sims married Yolanda Colabrese of Thomas; Stultz's wife is the former Mary Nuce of Kingwood; and Walley married Penny Pendergast of Piedmont.

All now married, they are a fairly prolific lot, the 13 present having about 40 children. The Walleys are in the lead at present, with 6, followed by Peters and Telek with 5 each.
